

AUDEMARSPIGUET

PROPOSAL

STRATEGIC

OF NETWORKS

SOCIAL

AUDEMARS

PIGUET

(AP)

PEDRO HENRIQUE MARTINS CÓIAS

A22400345

2

Content

01 WHO IS AUDEMARS PIGUET?	4
02 BRAND AND COMPETITOR ANALYSIS	6
SWOT Analysis OF Audemars Piguet	6
SWOT Analysis of Patek Philippe	8
SWOT Analysis of Vacheron Constantin	10
03 MARKETING MIX	13
Audemars Piguet	13
Patek Phillipe	13
Vacheron Constantin	14
04 COMPARISON WITH COMPETITION	15
Social Network Platforms	15
ADS	16
Physical Presence:	16
Summary:	16
05 “GOLDEN CIRCLE”	17
06 SMART OBJECTIVES	18
07 TONE OF VOICE	19
08 TARGET AUDIENCE	20
09 PERSONAS	21
10 SOCIAL NETWORKS	23
1. Instagram – Aesthetics, Exclusivity and Visual Narrative	24
2. LinkedIn – Authority, Legacy and Perceived Value	25
3. YouTube – Depth, Experience and Qualified Conversion	25
4. Facebook – Continuity, Trust and Discreet Relationship	26
5. WhatsApp – Exclusivity, Proximity and Personalized Service	26
11 MOODBOARD	27
12 PLATFORM	28
13 EDITORIAL LINE	28
Content pillars:	28

3
16 CAMPAIGN	33
17 CONCLUSION	37
18 BIBLIOGRAPHY	37

4

01 WHO IS AUDEMARS

PIGUET?

Audemars Piguet is a Swiss fine watchmaking house, based in Le Brassus, which was founded in Vallé de Joux in 1875 by Jules Louis Audemars and Edward Auguste Piguet under the name “Audemars Piguet & Cie”, completes together with Patek Philippe and Vacheron Constantin the “Holy Trinity” from Swiss watchmaking.

These two men were watchmakers, Audemars created several extremely complexes for brands such as “Tiffany&Co;” while Piguet specialized in regulating movements.

When the brand began its activity, responsibility was divided in such a way as to entrust Audemars handled production and technical development while Piguet handled management and sales. Since its foundation, this brand has been in the “hands” of the same families (The Audemars family and the Piguet Family).

Audemars Piguet (AP) has been a major influence on luxury watchmaking since its inception. its founding in 1875 and continues to shape the industry with constant innovation both in terms design and in technical terms. The brand has contributed significantly to shaping the luxury watch industry with some notable innovations.

They are:

- 1892: Created the first minute repeating movement for wristwatches, which it was later sold to Louis Brandt frères (Omega SA).
- 1899: Manufactured a "Grand Complication" pocket watch with seven complications, including “grand strike” and “small strike”, minute repeater”, alarm, “perpetual calendar”, “deadbeat seconds”, “chronograph with jumping seconds” and a “split seconds hand”.
- 1921: Created the first “jumping-hour” wristwatch, powered by the Caliber

HPVM10.

5

- 1934: Introduced the first “skeleton” watch.
- 1946: Produced the thinnest watch, with a 1.64 mm thick movement.
- 1972: Introduced the first “sportswatch” wristwatch, the “Royal Oak”.
- 1986: Created the ultra-thin automatic watch with tourbillon (Caliber 2870), measuring just 5.3 mm thick (including case).
- 1995/96: Manufactured the first automatic watch “Grand Complication” (Caliber 2885).
- 2006: Introduced the first direct impulse exhaust, based on a design from the watchmaker Robert Robin, from the 18th century.
- 2007/08: Developed the first watch with a carbon case and carbon movement (Royal Oak Carbon Concept).
- 2015: Launched the first mechanical chronograph with independent memory and three wheels column, called “Royal Oak Concept Laptimer Michael Schumacher”.
- 2019: Introduced the world's thinnest automatic perpetual calendar.

6

02 BRAND AND ANALYSIS

COMPETITORS

AUDEMARS PIGUET SWOT ANALYSIS

Strengths

- Heritage and reputation: More than 140 years of history and recognized technical innovations.
- Constant innovation: Pioneering complications such as minute repeater, tourbillon ultra-thin, direct impulse exhaust, among others.
- Extreme luxury positioning: High prices guarantee substantial margins.
- Iconic design: The Royal Oak and its variations are global references in sports luxury.
- Iconic collections:

the Royal Oak (1972): Revolutionized the industry by being the first sports watch luxury steel with haute horlogerie finish. The octagonal design with visible screws, signed by Gérald Genta, became an instant icon and symbol of distinction.

the Royal Oak Offshore (1993): More robust and bold interpretation of the Royal Oak, aimed at a younger and more daring audience. With large box, innovative materials and imposing aesthetics, it has become a regular presence on the wrist of athletes and celebrities.

o Code 11.59 by Audemars Piguet (2019): Introduction of a new language aesthetics and watchmaking for the 21st century. With complex geometry box multiple, lacquered or enamelled dials and new generation calibres, aims to combining technical tradition with contemporary expression.

- Strong presence in pop culture: Partnerships with celebrities, athletes, musicians and in films that increase brand recognition.
- Independent family business: Agile decision-making, long-term vision and preservation of the brand's DNA.
- Model exclusivity: Reduced catalog and limited production, reinforces the character odd of each piece.
- Strong secondary market: High demand and appreciation in the "pre-owned" market, confirm the robustness of "brand equity".
- Royal Oak Innovation: Launch of the first luxury sports watch in 1972, revolutionizing the watch industry.

Weaknesses

7

- Limited production: Low volume of parts produced per year, restricting the scale of recipe.
- Environmental image: “Latecomers/Non-transparent” classification by WWF in 2018, affects ESG reputation.
- Dependence on a niche: Very restricted target audience; sensitive to economic crises luxury consumption.
- Controlled distribution channel: Few own points of sale, limiting the penetration into new markets.
- Succession risk: Dependence on family governance processes can generate uncertainties in generational transitions.
- Restricted scale: Annual production of around 40,000 units limits the potential for revenue growth.
- Reduction in the use of traditional watches: The popularization of “smartphones” and “Smartwatches” reduce the demand for traditional luxury watches.

Opportunities

- Expansion in emerging markets: China, Middle East and Latin America with strong growth of ultra-luxury.
- Sustainability and transparency: Invest in green practices, certification of materials raw materials (Fairmined, RJC) and ESG reports to improve the image.
- Customization and digital services: Offer online personalization, “after-market” experiences sales” and virtual interaction platforms.
- Collaborations and limited editions: Partnerships with artists, designers and celebrities expand appeal and reach.
- “Certified Pre-Owned” Program: Create or collaborate with official “pre-owned” platforms owned” certified to capture additional revenue and retain new customers.
- “Gold-backed appeal”: With the price of gold at ≈€95/g, the intrinsic value of watches in gold reinforces its appeal as a safe haven asset in high inflation environments.
- Strategic management of raw materials: Long-term partnerships with suppliers and use of certified materials to ensure supply and reinforce ESG credibility.
- Hybrid innovations: Respond to the threat of “smartwatches” with models that integrate technological features without losing the identity of the luxury watch.

Threats

- Fierce competition: Patek Philippe, Vacheron Constantin, Richard Mille and brands

Independents reinforce the dispute in the luxury market.

- Economic volatility: Recessions and exchange rate variations directly affect sales of luxury.
- Global inflation: Rising costs of raw materials, energy and labor, they put pressure on margins and customer purchasing power.

8

- Volatile raw materials: Price fluctuations and risks of shortages of precious metals and minerals, can impact production costs and deadlines.
- Counterfeiting and “grey market”: Replicas and parallel resale can devalue the market official.
- Behavior change: Younger generations may prioritize experiences and services rather than the possession of material goods.
- Commercial tariffs and protectionist barriers: Imposition of import/export that can increase costs, reduce margin and limit access to markets.
- Increase in crime: Rising crime may discourage the use of luxury watches, afraid of theft, affecting the brand's demand and visibility.
- Popularity of “smartwatches”: Increased demand for smart watches could decrease the preference for traditional mechanical watches, especially among women younger generations.
- Perception of artificial scarcity: Criticism points out that the deliberate limitation of production creates an artificial scarcity that raises prices and raises distrust among consumers, which which can erode the brand's reputation.

SWOT ANALYSIS OF PATEK PHILIPPE

Strengths

- Heritage and historical reputation: Founded in 1839, it is one of the oldest houses watchmakers with uninterrupted production and, since 1932, has remained under family control Stern, ensuring independence and long-term vision.
- Vertical production and patented innovation: Designs and manufactures all stages internally, from design to finishing, holding more than 100 patents in complications such as perpetual calendar, flyback chronograph and minute repeater.
- “Ultra-premium” positioning: Limited annual production (around 70,000 pieces in 2023), high prices and robust margins reinforce the exclusivity status.
- Iconic collections:
 - o Calatrava (1932): Example of classic elegance.
 - the Nautilus (1976): Sporty-luxury design designed by Gérald Genta.
 - o Aquanaut (1997): Appealing to a younger audience, with a composite bracelet.
- Strong appreciation in the secondary market: Worldwide auctions present Patek Philippe at the top of the most expensive watches sold.

- Global recognition of prestige: Watches are a symbol of “status” among collectors and brand ambassadors around the world.
- Talent retention: Specialized craftsmen with decades of experience guarantee continuity of exclusive “know-how”.
- Restoration and certification services: Internal workshop accredited for restoration and authentication, value legacy and increase customer trust.

9

Weaknesses

- Restricted production scale: Although it guarantees exclusivity, it limits the ability to increase revenue and reach emerging segments.
- High entry price: Makes it difficult to attract beginners and professional collectors young people.
- Dependence on central lines: Calatrava, Nautilus and Aquanaut correspond to a large part of sales, which increases the risk in case of changing trends.
- Family governance: Despite ensuring independence, future successions can generate uncertainties.
- Digital challenge: E-commerce and online communication strategies less developed compared to some competitors.
- Exclusive supply of materials: Dependence on single certified suppliers can create vulnerability in stock delays.
- Gender balance: Low proportion of women in technical departments, which limits diverse perspectives.
- High training costs: Significant investment in the qualification of artisans, with long periods of learning before autonomy.

Opportunities

- Growth in emerging markets: Expansion in Asia, Middle East and America Latin, where ultra-luxury is in strong demand.
- Official “Certified Pre-Owned” program:
- Capitalize on the secondary market with guarantees and dedicated after-sales services.
- New collections and limited editions: Launch of innovative lines to attract urban audiences and young collectors.
- Sustainability and transparency: Adoption of “Fairmined” gold, RJC certification and ESG reports to improve image among consumers concerned about the environment environment.
- Digital personalization: “Virtual-to-store” platforms for customizing displays, bracelets and engravings.
- Hybrid “Smartwatches”
- Development of mechanical models with technological features complementary.
- VIP loyalty programs

- Exclusive events and personalized experiences for high-value customers.
- Cultural partnerships
- Collaborations with museums and artistic institutions for commemorative editions and events.

Threats

- Rivalry with Audemars Piguet and Vacheron Constantin.

10

- Global recessions, inflation or international conflicts can reduce demand for goods of luxury.
- Unauthorized resale and the proliferation of replicas harm the brand image and challenge price controls.
- Generation Z and “millennials” tend to value experiences over possession of material goods, which may affect demand for traditional mechanical watches.
- The appreciation or devaluation of major currencies (Swiss franc, euro, dollar) may affect price competitiveness and profit margins.
- New standards for the extraction and processing of precious metals may increase costs production and delay launches.
- Vulnerabilities in e-commerce and CRM systems can compromise data sensitivity of customers and the manufacturing itself.
- Suspension of in-person events, fairs and closure of boutiques may reduce sales and brand visibility.
- Criticism and campaigns suggest that deliberately limiting production creates a shortage artificial, inflating prices and may generate distrust among consumers and damage to the brand's reputation.

VACHERON SWOT ANALYSIS

CONSTANTIN

Strengths

- Inheritance and antiquity
 - Founded in 1755, it is the oldest watchmaking house in continuous operation, with 270 years of history and tradition.
 - Belongs to the Richemont Group
 - Benefits from marketing, logistics and finance synergies, but preserves a high degree of creative independence.
 - “Haute horology” with manually applied finishes, “anglage”, “guilloché”, classic engraving and enameling guarantee prestige.
 - Develops complications such as “tourbillon”, minute repeater and perpetual calendar, signed by “Poinçon de Genève”.
 - Iconic collections
- o Patrimony: sober lines of classical inspiration.

o Overseas: sporty-elegant with interchangeable strap.

o Historiques: reissues of emblematic models.

- Restoration Center in “Plan-les-Ouates” that takes care of historical pieces, valuing the brand legacy.

- Superior quality certification that reinforces trust and differentiation.

11

- Good appreciation at auctions for rare and vintage references, sustaining brand equity.

Weaknesses

- Only produces around 30,000 pieces/year, far from Patek and AP, which may restrict revenue growth.
- Less variety of complications and lines compared to the “Holy Trinity” competition.
- Belonging to the “Richemont Group”, although it offers advantages, can impose alignments strategic items that do not coincide 100% with the brand identity.
- Minimum purchase value (>€15,000) limits access to new enthusiasts and older generations young people.
- Online communication and “e-commerce” less robust than some rivals and presence in social networks more contained.
- Compared to AP and Patek, releases fewer rare “vraiment” pieces, which reduces “Buzz” along with of collectors.
- The strength of the Swiss franc could make prices less competitive internationally.
- Boutique network limited in number and geography, forcing customers to travel to assistance and purchase.

Opportunities

- Expand the number of boutiques and events in China, the Middle East, India and America Latin.
- Create an official platform for authenticated vintage watches to capture revenue and build loyalty enthusiasts.
- Partnerships with artists, museums or art/car brands for numbered series of high appeal.
- Augmented reality tools to virtually “try on” models and configure customizations.
- Certification of precious metals and stones, carbon footprint reports and initiatives environmental neutrality.
- VIP programs for annual maintenance, complimentary parts loan and reservations anticipated releases.
- Discreetly integrate connectivity functions without losing the luxury mechanical character.
- Traveling exhibitions and publications that celebrate centuries-old milestones and pioneering spirit watchmaker.

Threats

- Direct pressure from Audemars Piguet and Patek Philippe by the same “ultra-premium.”
- Financial crises, inflation and political instability that slow down luxury consumption.
- Unauthorized resale and counterfeits can dilute “perceived value” and confidence in brand.

12

- Generation Z and “millennials” value digital experiences and technological products in to the detriment of mechanics.
- New laws on the extraction of precious metals and import/export barriers that increase costs.
- Closing points of sale and postponing large watch shows could reduce visibility and sales.
- Attacks on CRM systems, “e-commerce” and customer databases put the company at risk sensitive information.
- Criticism about deliberate limitation of production to inflate prices can generate discredit among consumers

13

03 MARKETING MIX

AUDEMARS PIGUET

Product: Strongly bets on boldness and innovation. The Royal Oak line is its icon Absolute, mixing industrial design with artisanal finishing. Launches limited pieces, uses materials such as ceramics, forged carbon, and focus on proprietary movements. Likes to tease with unexpected designs and cultural “collabs”.

Price: Positioned in the “ultra-luxury” segment, but with a more “culturally desired” than just traditional. Entrance prices are around 20–25 thousand euros, but exclusive pieces can exceed 200 thousand. The perceived value is high, in part due to “hype” and scarcity.

Place: Has invested in an almost exclusively direct distribution model, through its “AP Houses” in key cities. It left many multi-brand retailers to control better experience and positioning. Some editions are accessible only by invitation or relationship with the brand.

Promotion: Communicates in a modern way, with a strong digital presence. Collaborate with artists, musicians, athletes and participates in events such as “Art Basel”. The brand bets on impactful visual narratives, behind-the-scenes content, and videos that associate the watch with contemporary culture and performance.

PATEK PHILLIPE

Product: It is the guardian of tradition. Their watches are classic, conservative in design and highly sophisticated in movements. Invests a lot in Grand Complications and calibers own. Each piece is made to last for generations, without giving in to fashions. The focus is on inheritance and technical perfection.

Price: Operates with an even higher pricing strategy, based on the idea of legacy and investment. A Calatrava starts at 25 thousand euros, but complications and special editions they easily rise to 500 thousand or more. It's a mark of heritage, not ostentation.

14

Place: Remains faithful to the traditional distribution model: authorized points of sale highly selective and few own boutiques. The purchase is often shrouded in formality and restricted access, reinforcing the idea of prestige and scarcity.

Promotion: Maintains a reserved and institutional tone. Its most famous campaign, “You never actually own a Patek Philippe...”, focuses on generational value. The brand avoids celebrities, remains discreet on social media and favors word-of-mouth among collectors.

VACHERON CONSTANTIN

Product: Focuses on artistic “savoir-faire”. The brand favors manual finishing, enamels, engravings and other traditional watchmaking arts. Pieces such as the “Métiers d’Art” and “Les Cabinotiers” reinforce the status of mechanical jewelry. It has a more poetic and artistic touch, without giving up the technique.

Price: Prices are in line with haute horlogerie, although slightly below the PP in “entry-level”. A Patrimony can start at around 18 thousand euros. At the top, the pieces “Les Cabinotiers” easily exceed 300 thousand. The value is in art and tradition, more than in immediate social status.

Place: Opts for a hybrid model: maintains presence in luxury retailers and boutiques own, with increasing investment in brand experience and digital. It also offers sales to order and service by appointment for demanding customers.

Promotion: Communicates through art and detail. “Storytelling” is centered on heritage, technical precision and manual arts. The brand participates in events cultural and watchmaking (such as “Watches & Wonders”) and invests in videos with a tone inspiring and calm, unhurried, like your watches.

15

04 COMPARISON WITH COMPETITION

SOCIAL MEDIA PLATFORMS

Audemars Piguet:

1. Facebook: 1.5M followers
2. Instagram: 3.4M followers
3. LinkedIn: 303k followers
4. TikTok: 199.3k followers
5. X: 235.7k followers
6. YouTube: 88.8k followers

Patek Philippe:

1. Facebook: 223k followers*
2. Instagram: 2.3M followers
3. LinkedIn: 217k followers*
4. TikTok: 2162 followers*
5. X: 3194 followers*
6. YouTube: 111k followers

Vacheron Constantin:

1. Facebook: 589k followers
2. Instagram: 1.1M followers
3. LinkedIn: 131k followers
4. TikTok: 43.6k followers
5. X: 145.6k followers
6. YouTube: 42.6k followers

- Indicates that the page contains no content

16

ADS

Audemars Piguet:

100+ “ADS” registered in the Google Transparency Center

Patek Philippe:

3 “ADS” registered in the Google Transparency Center

Vacheron Constantin:

50 “ADS” registered in the Google Transparency Center

PHYSICAL PRESENCE:

Audemars Piguet: 22 Boutiques

Patek Philippe: 3 Boutiques

Vacheron Constantin: 63 Boutiques

SUMMARY:

Audemars Piguet demonstrates a constant presence on social media, covers social media important and maintain a considerable advantage in terms of followers when compared with the other members of the trio, its content is varied, integrating a good mix of carousels and “reels” and in the case of YouTube a balance between shorter videos and longer ones long videos that YouTube “prefers”.

In terms of “ADS”, AP does not shy away from advertising, registering, by far, the largest number of “campaigns”.

The physical presence is in the middle of this trio and has 22 own boutiques around the world entire.

Vacheron Constantin also maintains a healthy presence on social media important, and their follower numbers are respectable.

Unfortunately, Instagram only publishes “reels”, which sometimes makes it difficult to admire the watches, and in this case it is harmful, and on YouTube despite being a brand that greatly reinforces the your story, your videos are all very short, which displeases the algorithm and does not allow for the public to learn more about the brand.

17

Its “advertising” presence is strong with 50 campaign registrations and its number of boutiques is the highest at 63.

Finally we find Patek Philippe, the hottest brand in the “Holy Trinity”.

This brand has the smallest number of boutiques with just 3 and the smallest number of “ADS” as well with 3, one gets the impression that PP intends to constantly control the surrounding narrative of the brand through control of communication channels.

And that makes its presence on social media even more curious, this brand that wants to appear to be cured and seeks to do so appropriately, he decided that despite his presence focused on Instagram and YouTube, with carousels of “reels” and images and long videos and short, you would leave your accounts active on Facebook, LinkedIn, X and TikTok without posting absolutely nothing.

In terms of optics, it seems to me to be a wrong decision considering the segment, it would be preferable deactivate accounts because here, it is better to have no presence than to have a careless presence.

This “creative decision” shows that despite being the best sellers in this segment, may make incorrect decisions that Audemars Piguet may take advantage of.

05 “GOLDEN CIRCLE”

The “Golden Circle” exists as a “framework” used to define how a brand communicates.

It establishes that communication must be done from the inside out, starting with “passing” purposes and values before promoting products or services.

This “framework then allows effectiveness in strengthening the emotional relationship between the public and visa brand makes it communicate in a way that is “perceived” as more human and genuine.

Since Audemars Piquet sells luxury watches that no one “needs” is important add the greatest possible value to the brand (“perceived” or not).

The AP “Golden Circle” exists in the following form:

WHY – (The Reason for Being)

Create magnificent and complex pieces of time that transcend functionality, where each it is an artistic expression of mastery, heritage and innovation.

This is the heart of the brand: passion, legacy and creative boldness. It's not just about watches, it is a legacy that is worn on the wrist.

HOW – (The Single Process)

Preserving the “savoir-faire” of Swiss watchmaking through artisanal processes led by master watchmakers who fuse tradition with innovation.

18

This creation method highlights rarity, exclusivity, authenticity and a human touch, exactly what the contemporary luxury consumer values most.

WHAT – (The Offer)

Swiss watches of exceptional complexity that combine traditional watchmaking techniques with cutting-edge innovation, each piece is a limited edition work of art.

From Royal Oak to Code 11.59, AP's offering is never just a product, it's a statement cultural.

06 SMART OBJECTIVES

1. LinkedIn – Strengthen AP's leadership and reputation (ToFu/MoFu)

Objective:

In 3 months, increase the number of qualified followers on LinkedIn by 1,500 by publishing content that demonstrates that Audemars Piguet is at the top not because of luck, but because of “knowledge” how” and work in excellent watchmaking.

2. Instagram – Increase engagement and visual brand recognition (MoFu)

Objective:

In 3 months, achieve a 25% growth in “engagement” (likes, comments and shares) in Instagram posts, through impactful visual content that transmit the exclusivity and innovation of Audemars Piguet, with an average frequency of 1 “post” per day.

3. YouTube – Convert qualified leads through premium and exclusive content (MoFu)

Objective:

In 3 months, launch a 6-episode premium series with John Mayer and exclusive stories from customers (3 “brand ambassadors” and 3 “normal” customers), aimed at converting watchmaking into high-value leads. The objective is to increase direct and appointments for personalized consultations, visits to boutiques and private events, through content that reinforces exclusivity and allows the capture of leads via forms or CRM integration.

4. Facebook – Strengthen the relationship and generate trust with more mature audiences (MoFu/BoFu)

Objective:

In 3 months, increase meaningful interactions (comments + private messages) by 30% via Messenger) with users 35+, through content that combines legacy, stories humanities and local activations (events in boutiques, watchmaking experiences, launches discrete).

19

The focus is on consolidating relational presence, stimulating private conversation and nurturing more leads traditional content with content designed for calm, credible and emotional consumption.

07 TONE OF VOICE

LinkedIn – Sophisticated and Craftsman

Why:

Channel to showcase complexity, mastery, tradition and innovation. The audience values the process, the heritage and intelligence behind the brand.

Tom: Intelligent, technical, human.

Example: "From Le Brassus to the world: where haute horlogerie is a human story of patience, precision and purpose."

Instagram – Timeless and Poetic

Why:

Visual platform where emotion and lifestyle merge with the image.

Tone: Sensory, minimal in words, poetic.

Example: "It's not just a watch. It's a whisper of time, engraved in gold."

YouTube – Culturally Fluent and Contemporary

Why:

Channel for audiovisual "storytelling", exploring intersections with art, music, design and figures like John Mayer.

Tone: Modern, elegant, narrative.

Example: "When rhythm meets precision, every second is a note."

Facebook – Reliable, Relational and Lasting

Why:

Facebook continues to be relevant for audiences 35+, where many buyers are found real haute horlogerie.

Tom: Serene, close, respectful and emotional. An invitation to trust and shared memory.

Tone example:

Some movements count time. Others tell stories.

WhatsApp – Exclusive, Discreet and Personal

Why:

Direct and private communication channel with high-value customers. Ideal for sharing personalized services, scheduling experiences, after-sales assistance and exclusive previews.

Tom: Elegant, direct, human and attentive, like a whisper between those who already know each other.

Example: "Good afternoon, Mr. Victor. The Royal Oak model you requested arrived this morning.

We reserved the first one for you."

20

08 TARGET AUDIENCE

1. Demography

Criteria:

Main Track

Age: 28–60 years

Genre:

Mostly male (but not exclusive)

Location: Western Europe, USA, Emirates, Southeast Asia

Occupation:

Executives, founders, creative entrepreneurs

Revenue: €120K – €2M+/year

“Net Worth”: €500K – €80M

Marital status: Single, in a relationship or married

2. Psychography

Aspects:

Description

Lifestyle: Sophisticated, discreet, with refined taste and appreciation for cultural heritage

Values:

Authenticity, exclusivity, legacy, cultural innovation

Emotional motivators:

Sense of belonging, silent validation, personal affirmation

Attitude towards luxury: Luxury is a form of expression and distinction, not ostentation

3. Digital Behavior

Platform

Target Behavior

Instagram:

Look for aesthetic inspiration, exclusivity, tasteful collaborations

LinkedIn:

Authority, silent networking, curated content with heritage and vision

YouTube:

Behind-the-scenes content, visual storytelling, premium production value

Facebook:

Look for trust, continuity and stories with emotional weight, interest in events, tradition and connection with the brand over time

WhatsApp:

Valuing personalized attention, quick responses and exclusive access to products, services or experiences in a discreet and direct way

4. Consumption Behavior/Intention

Criteria:

Description

Funnel stage: Mostly MoFu → BoFu (most of them already know the brand and consider it buy or collect)

Purchase type:

High consideration, emotional + rational, long lasting

Parallel interests: Art, design, architecture, cutting-edge technology, cultural investments

Loyalty level:

High, seek continuous relationships with brands with aligned values

FINAL SUMMARY OF OUR “TARGET AUDIENCE”:

“Individuals of high performance or high potential, with a global mindset and refined taste, who they see luxury as a form of cultural and personal expression. Look for brands with authenticity, heritage and innovation, and value personalized experiences and relationships with people brands.”

21

09 PERSONAS

Victor – The “Connoisseur” Collector

Age: 55 years old

Occupation: CEO, art and luxury collector

Marital status: Married

Children: 2 adult children (23 and 25 years old)

Estimated Net Worth: €25M – €80M

Long-time CEO with decades of wealth accumulation

Diversified investments (stocks, luxury real estate, art, watch collections)

Discreet yet highly sophisticated lifestyle

Ability to purchase high-value pieces without impacting lifestyle

Relationship with luxury brands based on legacy, not ostentation

Values and motivations:

- Values the heritage and story behind each watch
- Look for exclusive and highly prestigious pieces
- Appreciates craftsmanship, precision and durability
- Prefers discreet channels, such as private Instagram and LinkedIn, to maintain exclusivity

Digital behavior:

- Consume premium and curated content
- Prefers long-term relationships with brands, valuing personalized service

Challenges:

- Find watches that reinforce your “status” without losing authenticity
- Maintain exclusivity in the collection, preventing it from becoming mass market

Pain Points:

Luxury market saturation:

- Difficulty finding truly unique pieces in a market where luxury is increasingly accessible and massified.

Little Personalized Customer Service:

22

- Frustration with brands that treat high-value customers as just another number, without exclusive service to match.

Loss of historical value in new collections:

- Skepticism towards modern models that ignore the brand's historical DNA, appearing more commercial than authentic.

Lack of discretion in luxury marketing:

- Dislike of excessively flashy or “too digital” communications, which do not they respect the private and refined nature of the classic collector.

Lack of reliable channels for watchmaking investment:

- Insecurity in choosing watches as a long-term investment, especially with the proliferation of uncertified resellers.

Lucas – The Aspirational Young Man

Age: 28 years old

Occupation: Technological or creative entrepreneur, young professional on the rise

Marital status: Single

Yield: Medium-high, with a tendency to grow quickly

Estimated Net Worth: €500K – €5M

Values and motivations:

Fascination with innovative design and contemporary culture

Look for brands that convey aspirational “status” and are aligned with “lifestyle” modern

Likes to experiment and share trends on social media (Instagram, TikTok, Twitter)

Values experiences, technology and authentic “storytelling”

Digital behavior:

Very active on social platforms, seeks inspiration and social validation

Follow influencers, cultural events and technological news

Challenges:

Access to premium products without compromising personal identity

Finding brands that offer meaning and exclusivity without seeming elitist

23

Pain Points:

Luxury market saturation:

- Difficulty finding truly unique pieces in a market where luxury is increasingly accessible and massified.

Little Personalized Customer Service:

- Frustration with brands that treat high-value customers as just another number, without exclusive service to match.

Loss of historical value in new collections:

- Skepticism towards modern models that ignore the brand's historical DNA, appearing more commercial than authentic.

Lack of discretion in luxury marketing:

- Dislike of excessively flashy or “too digital” communications, which do not respect the private and refined nature of the classic collector.

Lack of reliable channels for watchmaking investment:

- Insecurity in choosing watches as a long-term investment, especially with the proliferation of uncertified resellers.

10 SOCIAL MEDIA

Here we chose the 4 (actually 5, but let's get to it) social networks that best suit the our target audience and therefore our personas.

The initial choice fell on LinkedIn and the remaining platforms were chosen taking into account tells which ones have the greatest synergy with it.

As AP's target audience is affluent and with “means”, it was important to check what the social network in which these individuals can be found.

According to studies focused on “UHNW”, this group tends to be found in greater numbers percentage on LinkedIn, when compared to other groups, as it is a social network for professional liner, data also indicates that the use of LinkedIn tends to increase depending on the average income, which means that an individual with a higher income has more likely to find yourself on LinkedIn than someone with the minimum income (It is possible observe an overrepresentation of individuals with income exceeding €150,000 per year).

Statistics from the “Datareportal” portal indicate that there is a very high correlation between the use of LinkedIn as the main network and the use of Instagram (85.4%), Facebook (85.3%) and Youtube (78.5%), which fits perfectly with the brand's objectives in terms of the message it want to show and the type of content you want to present.

I also decided to add WhatsApp (84%) to this group of networks. This would be the social network in which the brand could interact with customers directly, whether to arrange visits to the boutique (after the opening it in this hypothetical scenario), request bracelet adjustments, stay up to date with new arrivals, find out about private events, or even reserve/buy a piece.

24

According to studies carried out with a special focus on this type of consumer, it is possible to perceive that there is a growing trend to use WhatsApp as a shopping “hub”.

The “post-Covid” period saw brands make a “pivot” in order to meet the needs of these consumers, who were looking for a direct and private line of access to brands 24 hours a day per day and 7 days a week. A particularly illustrative case is that of Mercedes-Benz Turkey: by integrating WhatsApp directly into its ads, it replaced traditional forms with a click that immediately started a conversation with the brand. The result? 93% increase in conversions, almost three times more qualified leads and even direct sales in the conversation. More than convenience, it was about designing a discreet, functional channel with human touch, exactly what modern luxury demands.

Another example of luxury that knew how to take advantage of this channel was Dolce & Gabbana Alta Moda. During the pandemic, the brand transformed WhatsApp into a true intimate point of contact with its “UHNW” clients. Exclusive tests began to be accompanied by personalized video calls and chats, where choices of pieces costing tens of thousands of euros they were done without leaving the sofa, whether on a yacht or in a country house. WhatsApp is no longer just a tool and has become the invisible “hub” of luxury, where service personalized and discreet reinforces the exclusivity and proximity that haute couture clients demand.

1. INSTAGRAM – AESTHETICS, EXCLUSIVITY AND VISUAL NARRATIVE

Why:

Lucas lives immersed in visual culture and trends. Instagram is where you get inspired and connected with brands that reflect design, innovation and status.

Victor, although more selective, discreetly follows brands to observe collections and events exclusive.

Create desire and aspirational presence with Lucas.

Reinforce Victor's prestige image.

Content Type:

- Limited collection highlights
- Behind the scenes of artisanal production
- Editorial aesthetics

- Collaborations with designers or musicians (e.g. “reels” with John Mayer)

25

2. LINKEDIN – AUTHORITY, LEGACY AND

PERCEIVED VALUE

Why:

Victor values institutions, prestige and heritage, LinkedIn offers a space to showcase innovation with tradition, cultural impact and strategic alliances.

Lucas uses LinkedIn to position himself as a modern entrepreneur and follow brands that They also think like him: with purpose and sophistication.

Educate about what sets AP apart.

Create institutional trust and attract direct contacts with conversion potential.

Content Type:

- Behind-the-scenes stories, sponsorships, cultural initiatives
- Interviews with master watchmakers or executives
- Content about legacy, innovation and sustainability
- “Posts” with calls to visit the boutique or make appointments

3. YOUTUBE – DEPTH,

EXPERIENCE AND CONVERSION

QUALIFIED

Why:

Victor looks for depth, long videos about the brand's history, personalization, testimonials from collectors.

Lucas is attracted to inspiring and creative content, series with cultural figures, behind-the-scenes “lifestyle” and engaging “storytelling”.

Inform and delight, to motivate concrete actions such as scheduling visits or requesting customization.

Content Type:

- Premium series hosted by John Mayer with celebrity clients and “normal” clients
- Craft processes, customization, interviews
- Testimonials from collectors
- CTAs like “Book your private viewing” or “Visit the boutique”

26

4. FACEBOOK – CONTINUITY,

TRUST AND RELATIONSHIP

DISCREET

Why:

While less aspirational than Instagram or immersive like YouTube, Facebook continues to be relevant, especially for more mature audiences with purchasing power consolidated, like Victor. It is a platform where many people follow brands discreet and constant, attentive to news, private events and content that reinforces prestige. For Audemars Piguet, Facebook serves as a continuous point of contact, where trust is nurtured over time through more stable, targeted and personal interactions, without noise and focusing on the relationship.

Strengthen institutional presence with potential buyers.

Bring the brand closer with adapted content and conversion opportunities.

Content Type:

- Publications of collections with emotional and mature copy
- Backstage or launch photo album
- YouTube and LinkedIn “Reposts” with narrative adaptation
- Publicity of private events with local targeting
- Invitations to schedule appointments
- “Lives” and “stories” at events or production moments
- Targeted ads with button for Messenger or WhatsApp

5. WHATSAPP – EXCLUSIVITY,

PROXIMITY AND SERVICE

CUSTOMIZED

Why:

For anyone who invests in an Audemars Piguet, the service must be as refined as the watch.

WhatsApp offers a direct, immediate and discreet line to the brand, ideal for customers like

Victor, who value personal service, and for “prospects” like Lucas, who expect agility without losing sophistication. This proximity translates into trust and care: whether for schedule a private visit, receive an exclusive video of a new complication or simply follow the piece customization process. More than a channel, it is a extension of the boutique's excellent service, in the customer's pocket.

Create personal relationships with qualified prospects.

Offer premium and continuous after-sales support.

27

Content Type:

-

Personalized follow-up messages

-

Scheduling visits and private experiences

-

Preview of exclusive pieces and videos

-

“Updates” about customization or availability

-

Invitations to restricted events

-

Direct after-sales service with dedicated advisor

11 MOODBOARD

The brand's Moodboard reflects what would be the objective in visual terms on social media, with relatively straight, aggressive lines, rich, luxurious colors and a focus on exclusivity.

Another focus of communications would be the dissemination and “promotion” of the level of craftsmanship that is used in the design, execution and production of our pieces.

It also reinforces the need to capitalize on the relationship with brand ambassadors in search to keep the brand at the public's “top of mind” even in moments that they may not associate with immediately to watches.

Finally, it is extremely important to make our audience aware of those who are our primary “hubs”, whether through advertising the factory or showing the interior of our “AP Houses” which is our most direct and personal connection with our customers, whether they are possible or realized

Above all, highlight Audemars Piguet as the “winning team” and the one that everyone they want to be part of it.

28

12 PLATFORM

Instagram

@apiguetoficial

13 EDITORIAL LINE

When we talk about editorial line we are talking about defining themes, values and type of language that we want our content to possess in order to resonate with our target audience.

In the specific case of Audemars Piguet, I decided to create four thematic pillars that I believe are necessary to cover everything related to this brand and which, in one way or another, another, define it.

CONTENT PILLARS:

Products: Everything related to watches fits here, the product final and finished.

Any mention of innovations, technologies and materials must be made in a superficial way. in order to avoid cannibalizing interest in "posts" that fit into the next pillar (Technology),

29

The aim is to capture people's attention and stimulate their emotional and less rational side, we want them to observe and desire without thinking about what makes up the watch.

Technology: This pillar's main objective is to make the public aware of what it does of a different Audemars Piguet watch.

From the complexity of a "Tourbillon" to the extreme scratch resistance of ceramics passing through the double sapphire glass, we want to show that all our watches are thought out down to the smallest detail.

History: The "History" pillar seeks to demonstrate to the public AP's contributions to the world of "Haute Horology" throughout its decades of existence, whether through the exhibition of all the watches that broke barriers and made the impossible possible or through Recognition from those, like Gerald Genta, shaped the brand to be what it is today.

Content created with this pillar in mind educates the public and reinforces authority in the sector due to centuries-old experience.

Mundo AP: A brand with the aspirational character of Audemars Piguet must reinforce its exclusivity and rarity of your pieces, but at the same time, if you do it too much, you end up for making your watches less of a dream and more of a fantasy.

When transforming from dream (attainable) to fantasy (impossible), the client (or potential customer) begins to look favorably on the competition that he thinks gives him greater likely to purchase some of these special pieces.

In order to avoid this situation, the content developed under this pillar will show common parts (SS Royal Oak) and uncommon (Royal Oak OpenWorked Frosted Gold) in customer hands common (Locksmiths) and uncommon (Rappers), to be loved and used, in order to create bonds among all the participants, who have something in common, the love for watchmaking.

This pillar seeks to show what happens to our watches when they leave the brand's possession and make their way across the world.

Collection pieces that spend much of their time in safes or lived-in "tools" that are passed from father to son.

30

Examples of content for each pillar:

Products:

-

First Sportswatch SS: Content focused on the first Royal Oak, what the model looks like original and what defines it.

-

Royal Oak Concept "Spiderman": Publication about the "Spiderman" themed model from the Royal Oak Concept line.

Technologies

-

"Tourbillon" Complication: Content that addresses mechanical complexity and beauty of this complication.

-

Ceramic bracelet creation and execution process: Content that shows the technical details and the manufacturing behind the ceramic bracelets.

History

-

Ceramic Finish: Publication about the history and evolution of the use of finishes in ceramic on the brand's watches.

-

"Tourbillon" Complication: Content that addresses the historical importance and meaning of the "Tourbillon" complication in watchmaking as its maximum exponent.

AP World

-

Announcement of the Series "In the Hands of Time, with John Mayer": Disclosure of a content series in partnership with John Mayer to increase brand awareness.

-

"AP House Lisboa" Inauguration (Private Event): Content focused on the inauguration of a new brand space in Lisbon, aimed at converting and generating leads.

14 CALENDAR OF

CONTENTS (15 DAYS)

March 14-29

(https://www.notion.so/Calend-rio-de-Conte-dos-

21abf944dc0b80dca4a4c9e13a76f5db?source=copy_link)

The weeks chosen for this calendar depended on the co-founder's birthday.
brand.

The times to post were taken from research on specialty websites, they are not the most accurate as possible, but taking into account the lack of data on our audience, it is the safest time for each chosen platform.

31

In a real context, any change could be made in real time with the aim of “tuning” the schedules.

15 CONTENT

Carousel that showcases the initial steps in the development and eventual launch of Royal Oak is the first stainless steel sports watch.

Carousel demonstrating three different versions of a “perpetual calendar” with a ceramic in the three colors that the brand produces.

32

Carousel containing video and images demonstrating the new “Royal Oak Concept Spiderman”, partnership with Marvel.

Post that shows the hypothetical “AP House” that would open on Avenida da Liberdade in Lisbon and that would encourage the public to share their details to make an appointment and visit the boutique.

33

16 CAMPAIGN

The paid campaign that would be launched by Audemars Piguet would aim to capture of leads through the promotion of the inauguration of “AP House Lisbon”, which would be the first time since its inception that the brand that would be present (first time directly, since At the moment the brand is present in our country, but only through the use of “Boutique dos Relógios Plus” as “authorized seller”) physically in Portugal.

The opening of this space would satisfy a need that lovers of watchmaking faces in Portugal, the Portuguese customer has Patek and Vacheron boutiques at their disposal but not from AP, which, taking into account our target audience, is an omission detrimental to our Portuguese image lands mainly in the eyes of those “High Net Worth Individuals” who are looking for an exclusive experience and direct access to the brand without having to “talk” to them through a third party.

A quick search on the “Chrono24” platform (which is the largest purchasing and sales of watches worldwide) allows us to understand that there are so many items for sale Patek Philippe brand in Portugal, like Audemars Piguet and Vacheron Constantin combined. This reinforces the idea that the “Portuguese” values this old school approach and if the AP If you wanted to capture their attention, you should invest in the local boutique and its “promotion”.

This campaign aims to capture Leads, the “conversion” would take place on Instagram (through direct message asking for data and then forwarding it to Whatsapp) and would last of one week (the week that ran from March 20/21 to March 28, which would be the week between the private inauguration of the boutique until the opening to the public) (The date of the “screenshots” refers to 2026 just because it is not possible to define a date that has already passed).

The budget would be €50,000 for this campaign week, without any idea of the values practiced I decided to opt for the value of a popular watch from the brand, which means that a Sales achieved through this capture of leads would be enough to recover the investment.

Our audience would be personalized/segmented by age (25+), location (Nearby Algarve, Funchal, Cascais, Oeiras, Lisbon, Porto and Almada), interests (Patek Philippe, Vacheron Constantin, Rolex, Ferrari, Lamborghini, Investing, Luxury Goods, etc....) and behaviors (Frequent Travelers and Frequent International Travelers).

Our audience would be defined in terms of age and location, and “AI” would optimize the “delivery” taking into account interests and behaviors without ever exceeding the total budget €50000.

In terms of placements, our “AD” would be “delivered” on Instagram, in the categories “Stories and Reels” and “Feeds” with the exception of “Facebook Notifications” as in this type of segment, I believe that it is not ideal to opt for this relatively invasive type of Positioning.

34

36

(PS: the “post” button should be “send message on Instagram” and not “learn more”, so some reason is always changing)

37

17 CONCLUSION

This work, similar to that which was developed in groups, was a task complex, partly due to the amount of possibilities and partly due to the scarcity of data.

Some of the concepts at a certain point begin to mix with something similar (or perhaps the same) given by another teacher in another subject, even so I believe I have managed to understand most of these ideas and, hopefully, have applied the same in this project.

At the same time I tried to distill this work a little more in comparison to the group project, with the aim of maintaining a “leaner” work in which any error would be more easily identified, both by the teacher and by me, thus making this work a more accurate demonstration of my knowledge.

Regarding the project itself, Audemars Piguet proved to be a very competent when it comes to your social media marketing.

The only flaws I can point to are the “less than ideal” choice for brand ambassadors who bring a lot of negative feedback to the comments, the fact that they recently started posting “reels” on Instagram which are very similar to advertisements and which, like the issue of ambassadors, brings the same type of feedback.

Finally, and what seems to me to be the most glaring omission, we have the lack of “storytelling” and appeal to nostalgia and community.

It seems to me that the brand focuses too much on the watches it currently has in its portfolio. portfolio and ignores those who have already left its ranks, the history (both of the brand as well as the watches you sold and their owners) it is so important to sell like watches, especially in a market as aspirational as this one.

Overall, it was a job that I was able to enjoy and at the same time I believe that I managed to respond to what was asked by the teacher.

18 BIBLIOGRAPHY

Facebook

Audemars Piguet (@audemarspiguet) • Instagram photos and videos

(12) Audemars Piguet: Life | LinkedIn

Audemars Piguet (@audemarspiguet) | TikTok

Audemars Piguet (@AudemarsPiguet) /

Audemars Piguet - YouTube

38

Audemars Piguet | Find a Boutique - Where to Buy

PatekPhilippeGeneva - YouTube

Instagram

Patek Philippe (@patekphilippe) /

Patek Philippe (@patekphilippe) | TikTok

PatekPhilippeGeneva - YouTube

Facebook

Vacheron Constantin (@vacheronconstantin) • Instagram photos and videos

Facebook

(12) Vacheron Constantin: Posts | LinkedIn

Vacheron Constantin (@vacheronconstantin) | TikTok

Vacheron Constantin (@Vacheron1755) /

Vacheron Constantin - YouTube

Ad Transparency Center

<https://g.co/gemini/share/1f717b6a444b>

Mercedes-Benz Turkey Success Story

<https://chatgpt.com/share/685ac66b-b53c-8003-80b0-60c603651892>

Best Times to Post on Instagram in 2025 [Updated March 2025] | Sprout Social

Best Times to Post on Facebook in 2025 [Updated March 2025] | Sprout Social

Best Times to Post on YouTube & Shorts in 2025 | Sprout Social

Best Times to Post on LinkedIn in 2025 [Updated March 2025] | Sprout Social

<https://chatgpt.com/share/685afd5e-6d30-8003-ab94-7e38dda183fe>

<https://chatgpt.com/share/685afe02-2db0-8003-99d6-d285dd3c4814>

<https://chatgpt.com/share/685afe27-0138-8003-88ae-cd52f3aa813e>

Digital 2025: Global Overview Report — DataReportal – Global Digital Insights

(Slides:377;387;478;479;480;481;482)